WITH PERSONALITY

Andean Avocet

The Andean Avocet is a beautiful bird with long, skinny legs and a super cool, upturned beak that it uses to sweep through the water and catch tiny food. It lives high up in the Andes Mountains, in salt lakes where not many other animals can survive. With its black-and-white feathers and graceful way of moving, it's easy to spot! These special birds need clean, safe wetlands to live in and thrive.
